Wow-Stephen has a secret occupation-modeling for Amish Country travel brochures.😂
Found this in a rest stop on the way home from Rock Hall.
Hope all is well.

That's Trog.

Dad

I had a feeling Trog converted to Amish but I wasn't sure.

Today is the National Day of Prayer. From our back yard, I heard beautiful patriotic music and singing from this local high school, and went to check it out at City Hall plaza.

Met some of the students. It was an extraordinary experience.

Kids these days . . . making a real difference.

My faith in the future is renewed. 💕🙏

Really really good appointment with nurse practitioner of neurology.

Full diagnosis is pending as she will know more as she gets to know me over time, but I'm sticking with this woman, she was excellent. Melissa joined me today. Glad we didnt wait for the other appointment later this month.

More time and basic tests yet to go, but for now she had high conviction around diagnosing me with PTSD. She is doubling my Zoloft to 100 mg, adding a mood stabilizer, and added a BP med that is also used to treat attention deficit. Throw in a pinch of depression, make it two pinches actually, and a sprinkling of anxiety as well - all of which should be dealt with by taking these meds, physical regime, starting a cognitive therapy regime through this new clinic, and things like mindful meditation etc. - all in all, some new info, some info we knew already, a few hunches confirmed, and we're off and running. Love and thanks to you all. I got this. We got this. I'm much better overall. No sugar on this coat, but a long way to go.

Mom

A really thorough plan.
You being 100% on board with this new direction is the best news.
We really appreciate your updates.
Thank you.
So much love to you, Melissa, and Lucy. 💕
